Description	As a performance-enhancing alternative to the stack lift, Transomat can be used for unloading a high-speed cutter The Polar Transomat automatically places divided and undivided layers on pallets, while the cutting process continues at the same time. This reduces production costs by 25 to 70 per cent, depending on the cutting programme The Polar Transomat achieves high edge accuracy in the process Increased productivity: Stacking at the same time as cutting. Improved quality: stacks with particularly accurate edges can be processed directly and faster Cleaned, repaired and tested
